

ARTICLE I

COMPTROLLER'S FINDINGS

The Comptroller finds, and the Bank neither admits nor denies, the following:

(1) Effective January 19, 2010, the Federal Reserve Board issued amendments to Regulation E requiring, among other things, that financial institutions provide a disclosure and obtain a consumer's affirmative consent to the payment of overdrafts for ATM and one-time debit card transactions prior to charging an overdraft fee (the "Opt-In Rule"). Compliance with these provisions became mandatory on August 15, 2010, for accounts opened before July 1, 2010. Accounts opened on or after July 1, 2010, were required to immediately comply with the Opt-In Rule.

(2) In light of the Opt-In Rule, the Bank developed and executed overdraft presentation procedures to obtain customer opt-ins to the Bank's overdraft service for the payment of overdrafts for ATM and one-time debit card transactions ("Overdraft Service").

(3) The Bank's Opt-In Practices left a deceptive "net impression" for some customers who already held accounts at the Bank as of June 30, 2010 (existing customers), and some customers who opened accounts on or after July 1, 2010 (new customers). Some customer scripts lacked key information to allow customers to make an informed opt-in choice. Additionally, with respect to new customers, the Bank's account opening process obscured the optional nature of opting in to the Bank's Overdraft Service. Although the Bank provided its customers with written disclosures concerning its Overdraft Service that were technically compliant with Regulation E, Bank employees provided customers with information that left a subset of new and existing customers with a deceptive "net impression" of the Bank's Overdraft Service between January 2010 and December 2013.

(4) By reason of the foregoing, the Bank engaged in deceptive practices in violation of Section 5 of the FTC Act, 15 U.S.C. § 45(a)(1). The Bank's violations of Section 5 of the FTC Act caused substantial consumer injury.

(5) The Bank's violations of Section 5 of the FTC Act are part of a pattern of misconduct that resulted in financial gain to the Bank. The Bank's violations of Section 5 of the FTC Act caused the Bank to be unjustly enriched.

(6) Pursuant to the authority vested in him by the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, as amended, 12 U.S.C. § 1818, the Comptroller hereby ORDERS that:
